1. Purpose

The Department of Planning and Environment (the department) takes the privacy of our staff and the people of NSW seriously, and we will protect privacy with the use of the Privacy Management Plan as a reference and guidance tool.

The Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (NSW) (PPIP Act) requires each public sector agency to prepare and implement a Privacy Management Plan (the Plan). Under s33 of the PPIP Act, the Plan must include:

- policies and practices to ensure compliance with the requirements of the PPIP Act or the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (NSW) (HRIP Act)
- dissemination of those policies and practices to persons within the agency
- internal review procedures
- other matters considered relevant by the agency to privacy and the protection of personal information held by the agency.

2. Introduction

2.1. Summary

This Plan was prepared by the department and has been made available to all agencies within the Planning and Environment cluster. The Plan applies to all Departmental staff and the cluster agencies listed in Appendix 1.

Service NSW provides services to some customers of the department on our behalf including the National Parks and Wildlife Service and Crown land. This Plan applies whether services are provided directly by the Department or by Service NSW. For more information about Service NSW visit www.service.nsw.gov.au.

The Plan sets out the measures the adopting agencies take to comply with the PPIP Act and the HRIP Act to protect the privacy of our clients, staff and others about whom we hold personal and health information.

This Plan has been prepared and implemented as required under section 33 of the PPIP Act. The department may amend this Plan from time to time, as required by changes in legislation, processes, procedures or other events.

It describes how you can request access to, and amendment of, your personal and health information held by us and how we process an internal review or handle a complaint under the PPIP Act or the HRIP Act.

Where this Plan mentions the words 'us', 'we' and 'our', they refer to the agencies that have adopted this plan.

2.2. Objectives

The PPIP Act and HRIP Act contain principles on how to collect, store, access, amend, use and disclose personal and health information. The PPIP Act covers personal information other than health information and requires us to comply with 12 information protection principles (IPPs). Health information includes information about a person's health/disability and health/disability services provided to them. There are 15 health privacy principles (HPPs) with which we must also comply.

The objectives of the Plan are to:

- detail our commitment to protecting the privacy of our clients, staff and others about whom we hold personal or health information

- inform our employees about how to manage and protect personal and health information
- describe how you can request access to and/or amendment of your personal or health information, held by us
- integrate the IPPs and HPPs into existing and future policies, guidelines and procedures that address information issues
- set complaint handling and internal review procedures
- inform you on how to request a privacy internal review
- explain the right for you to apply to the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal, in cases where you remain dissatisfied with internal review findings.

2.3. Application and staff responsibilities

This plan applies to all staff engaged by us, whether by permanent appointment (ongoing), temporary appointment, seconded from another agency, on work experience, volunteer work or as contractors.

All employees, agents, contractors and volunteers are required to comply with the PPIP Act and HRIP Act. Both Acts contain criminal offence provisions applicable to staff, agents and contractors who use or disclose personal information or health information without authority. It is an offence to:

- intentionally disclose or use personal or health information accessed in doing our jobs for an unauthorised purpose
- offer to supply personal or health information for an unauthorised purpose
- attempt by threat, intimidation, etc, to dissuade a person from making or pursuing a request for health information, a complaint to the NSW Privacy Commissioner about health information, or an internal review under the HRIP Act, or
- hinder the Privacy Commissioner or member of staff from doing their job.

It is a criminal offence, punishable by up to two years' imprisonment, an $11,000 fine, or both, for any person employed or engaged by the department (including former employees and contractors) to intentionally use or disclose any personal information or health information about another person, to which the employee or contractor has or had access in the exercise of his or her official functions, except in connection with the lawful exercise of his or her official functions.

2.4. Definitions

Personal information is defined in section 4 of the PPIP Act as:

“information or an opinion about an individual whose identity is apparent or can be reasonably ascertained from the information or opinion”.

Personal information is information that identifies you and could be:

- a written record which may include your name, address and other details about you
- electronic records, photographs, images, video or audio footage and maps
- biometric information such as fingerprints, blood, and records of genetic material.

The PPIP Act excludes certain types of information. The most significant exemptions are:

- information contained in publicly available publications
- information about a person's suitability for public sector employment
- information about people who have been dead for more than 30 years
- a number of exemptions relating to law enforcement investigations
- matters arising out of a Royal Commission or Special Commission of Inquiry
- matters contained in Cabinet documents.

Health information

Section 6 of the HRIP Act defines 'health information' as:

- i) personal information or an opinion about
  - the physical or mental health or a disability (at any time) of an individual
  - an individual's express wishes about the future provision of health services to him or her
  - a health service provided, or to be provided, to an individual.

or

- ii) other personal information collected
  - relating to provision of a health service
  - in connection with the donation of an individual's body parts, organs or body substances
  - about genetic information pertaining to an individual arising from health service provisions that could potentially predict the health of the individual or his/her relative.

This Plan refers to 'personal information', which in all applicable instances includes health information, unless otherwise specified.

3. Applying the principles

The 12 IPPs are found in sections 8-19 of the PPIP Act, while the 15 HPPs are found in Schedule 1 of the HRIP Act (see Appendix 6). Failure to comply with these principles attract offences under both the PPIP and HRIP Acts.

3.1. Collection of personal information

The collection of information is covered by IPPs 1-4 and HPPs 1-4. We only collect personal information directly from you, where possible. We limit what we collect to what is necessary, and only for a lawful purpose. For example, we will only ask for your email address if we need to contact you via email.

When we collect information from you, we will explain why it is being collected, what we will use it for, who is likely to receive it, and that you have a right to access and/or modify your personal information.

There may be consequences if you do not provide the personal information requested. For example, we will not be able to contact you if you do not provide an email address or phone number. Where there are consequences to you for failing to provide any requested information, this will also be explained when the information is collected.

Staff members (including contractors and consultants) and volunteers are responsible for meeting these requirements and will usually do so by including a privacy statement or collection notice. This could be on our forms, surveys or questionnaires, in web-based transactions or other instruments.

3.2. Storage of information

IPP 5 and HPP 5 refers to the storage and security of personal information. Each of our business units apply appropriate security to protect personal information. We have an ICT policy, use passwords and, where possible, encrypt information to ensure it is protected and kept secure. All staff must comply with the Code of Ethics and Conduct and are provided with training on privacy.

We do not keep personal information any longer than is necessary. Personal information will be stored, used, retained and disposed of in accordance with the following:

- State Records Act 1998
- DPE Records Management Policy and Advice

- DCS-2020-02 NSW Cyber Security Policy
- Premiers Memorandum M2007-08 Efficient and Cost-Effective Management of Records
- NSW State Records' Standard on records management

3.3. Access and amend your personal information

IPPs 6-8 and HPPs 6-8 provide for access and amendment of your personal information. If you wish to know whether we hold personal information about you, you can contact us directly to enquire. If you believe that your personal information held by us is inaccurate, irrelevant, not up to date, incomplete and/or misleading, you can request that it be amended.

If you want to access your information, we must grant that access without cost or unreasonable delay. Note that we may require that you prove your identity before granting any request to access or amend your information.

To make an access or amendment request, you should contact the business area holding the information (if known) or contact us at privacy@dpie.nsw.gov.au.

3.4. Using your personal information

IPP and HPP 9 require that we ensure that personal information is accurate, up-to-date, relevant, complete and not misleading before we use it. This means that if some time has passed since the information was collected, or there is any other reason to have concerns about the adequacy of the information, we will take reasonable steps to check that it is still accurate, up-to-date, relevant, complete and not misleading.

IPP and HPP 10 sets the rules for how we use your information. We only use your personal information for the purposes for which it was collected, or a directly related purpose. If there is a need to use the information for another purpose, we would ask for your consent, unless the information is used to prevent an immediate danger to someone's life or health.

There may also be specific other uses outlined in privacy collection statements for specific transactions you undertake with us. For example, if you have engaged with us for a particular program, we will advise that we may use your information to evaluate and review the program in question.

There are several exemptions to the provisions about use of information set out in the PPIP and HRIP Acts. Details of those exemptions are in part 3 of this Plan.

3.5. Disclosing your information

Disclosure of your personal information, that is, providing your information to another agency, organisation or individual, is restricted by IPPs 11 and 12 and HPPs 11 and 14.

We only disclose your information to other parties if one of the following applies:

- you agree to the disclosure
- you are aware that this sort of information is usually disclosed
- we need to disclose the information to fulfil the purpose for which it was first collected
- information is supplied by us to prevent danger to someone's life or health.

Information about your ethnic or racial origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs or trade union membership, except to prevent death or injury, is never disclosed unless:

- you agree to the disclosure
- the disclosure is necessary for an investigative function
- information is supplied by us to prevent danger to someone's life or health.

We do not give personal information to anyone outside NSW unless there are similar privacy laws in that person's state or country or the disclosure is allowed under a privacy code of practice, or is authorised or required under legislation. Any exemptions to this are set out in part 3 of this Plan.

3.6. Special provisions for health information

There are some special provisions that only apply to health information contained in HPPs 12, 13 and 15. We may only assign identifiers (e.g. a number) to an individual's health information if it is reasonably necessary for us to carry out our functions. We must not include health information in a health records linkage system without your consent.

The People and Culture branch may collect health information in order to manage cases of injured staff and to investigate workplace incidents. Where health information has been gathered to case manage an injured staff member, it is not given a separate identifier but kept against the relevant employee's injury management record. Where the information has been gathered as part of an investigation of a workplace incident, the information is held against the investigation file, and not given any separate identifier. People and Culture have no linkages to any health records systems.

4. Other provisions and exemptions

Both the PPIP Act and HRIP Acts specify certain situations when the IPPs and HPPs do not apply.

4.1. Public Registers

A public register is a register of information that is publicly available or open to public inspection. For example, if you own a property, this will be publicly available through a land title information search. Some of your personal information will be publicly available, such as your name, address, and any mortgages or caveats on the property.

Public registers are made under legislation. Part 6 of the PPIP Act requires that an agency be mindful of the IPPs and HPPs when publishing a public register, but some personal information may still be made public if the purpose of the register requires it. For example, the register for political donations by planning applicants must include the name of the donor.

If you are concerned about your information being available through a public register, contact the department.

Some examples of public registers maintained by the department includes (but is not limited to):

Land Registry Services

- Water access licence register

Environmental Planning and Assessment Act and Regulation

- Political donations and gifts by planning applicants
- Planning agreement register

Biodiversity Conservation Act

- Areas of outstanding biodiversity value
- BioBanking
- Biodiversity conservation programs
- Biodiversity offsets
- Enforceable undertakings
- Kangaroo harvesting licences

- Licences to harm
- Remediation orders
- Threatened species licences
- Wildlife licences

National Parks and Wildlife Act

- Aboriginal heritage impact permits
- Aboriginal Places
- Civil proceedings
- Criminal convictions
- Interim protection orders
- Leases, easements and rights of way
- Remediation directions

Other environmental registers

- Native vegetation public register
- Wilderness protection agreements

- National Parks and Wildlife filming approvals

Governance

- Gifts, Benefits & Hospitality register

Crown Lands

- Aboriginal land claims
- Native title claims

4.2. Directions of the Privacy Commissioner and Codes of Practice

Under section 41 of the PPIP Act and section 62 of the HRIP Act, the Privacy Commissioner may make a direction to waive or modify the requirement for a public sector agency to comply with an information protection principle, a health privacy principle or a privacy code of practice.

Agencies can approach the Privacy Commissioner to request a Direction. The general intent is for the Directions to apply temporarily. If a longer-term waiver of the application of an IPP or HPP is needed, then a Code of Practice may be more appropriate.

Part 3 of the PPIP Act and Part 5 of the HRIP Act provide for the making of a privacy Code of Practice. Any such Code is reviewed by the Privacy Commissioner and approved by the Minister. A Code can regulate an agency's collection, storage, use or disclosure of personal information, or modify the operation of the IPPs and HPPs when applied in specific circumstances.

Directions and Codes of Practice currently in operation are listed on the website of the Privacy Commissioner (www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/public-interest-directions and www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/privacy-codes-practice).

4.3. Some exemptions in the PPIP ACT or the HRIP ACT

It is worth noting that both the PPIP Act and the HRIP Act provide some specific exemptions from the IPPs and the HPPs.

Some of the exemptions in the PPIP ACT are listed in sections 22-28 and include:

- law enforcement and related matters (section 23)
- investigative agencies (section 24)
- where lawfully authorised or required (section 25)
- when it would benefit the individual concerned (section 26)
- specific exemptions for ICAC, NSW Police Force, Police Integrity Commission, and the NSW Crime Commission (section 27)
- certain exchanges between public sector agencies (section 27A)
- research (section 27B)
- credit information (section 27C)
- other exemptions (section 28).

4.4. Data Analytics Centre and sharing information with other agencies

The Data Sharing (Government Sector) Act 2015 (DSGS Act) was created to promote sharing of information for certain purposes. This includes allowing the government to carry out data analytics for the purposes of identifying issues and solutions to better develop government policy, program management, and service planning and delivery.

The DSGS Act provides for the expeditious sharing of information with the Data Analytics Centre (DAC), which operates within the department of Customer Service, or between other government sector agencies. It also provides protections in connection with data sharing and ensures compliance with the requirements of the PPIP Act and HRIP Act for privacy protection.

We are required to ensure that health and/or personal information contained in the data that is shared complies with privacy legislation. We are also obliged to ensure that any confidential and commercial-in-confidence information contained in the data to be shared complies with any contractual or equitable obligations of the data provider concerning how it is dealt with.

Before responding to a request from DAC or another government agency to provide information, we consult internally with the relevant subject matter experts. We may also ask the Privacy Commissioner to guide us on the best way to comply with the request for information whilst upholding the IPPs and HPPs. Options considered before deciding whether to share requested information includes:

- Can the information be de-identified before sharing?
- Can aggregated data be used instead?
- What safeguards are in place to ensure secure transfer, storage and access to the data?

When sharing data, we will usually put strong agreements in place to the receiving agency is clear on the sensitivity of the data and the need to limit the use of the data to the project it is specifically shared for.

4.5. Privacy impact assessments (PIA)

A PIA may be required to assess any actual or potential effects that an activity, project or proposal may have on personal information held by us. A PIA can also outline ways in which any identified risks can be mitigated, and any positive impacts enhanced. Public consultation and measuring community expectations is an important part of any thorough PIA.

It may not be possible to eliminate or mitigate every risk, but ultimately a judgement will be made as to whether the public benefit to be derived from the project will outweigh the risk posed to privacy.

To know if a PIA is required, staff should fill out the checklist at Appendix 3. If the answer to one of more of those questions is “yes”, then advice should be sought from the department’s Information Access and Privacy Unit (Appendix 5) and a PIA should be seriously considered. The department uses the Privacy Risk Procedure, adapted from materials from Salinger Privacy©, to determine whether a PIA is needed.

If a PIA is needed, the department may undertake the assessment internally or engage an external consultant. The level of risk and the size of the project will help determine which option is best. The department also takes into consideration the guidance provided by the IPC on conducting a PIA: <https://www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/guide-privacy-impact-assessments-nsw>.

5. Promoting the Plan

We employ the following broad strategies to ensure ongoing compliance with the privacy legislation:

- As part of our induction program, new staff are provided with information to raise their awareness and appreciation of the privacy legislation requirements
- We provide refresher and on-the-job training for specialist staff
- We highlight and promote the Plan during Privacy Awareness Week/Month
- We provide specialist privacy advice internally to staff
- The Plan is published on the department’s intranet with links to supporting guidance from the IPC
- The Plan is published on our website and reviewed/updated at least every 1-2 years
- Every five years we formally review and audit our compliance with the privacy legislation.

6. Privacy complaints, breaches and internal reviews

6.1. Privacy complaints and internal reviews

If you believe that we may have breached your privacy, or have not complied with a request for access or amendment, you can:

- raise an informal complaint, or
- submit an application for internal review of conduct with us.

Informal complaint

If you make an informal complaint, our Information Access & Privacy unit will work with the relevant business area in the department to correct any problems, such as removing information that has been inappropriately published, and to contain any potential harm caused. We might also work to improve processes and procedures to minimise the risk of similar problems happening again. We will let you know the outcome of any actions we take.

See chapter 6.2 below for more information on how we handle privacy breaches.

If you want to resolve an issue informally, please contact the relevant area of the department, if known, to discuss your issue. You can also contact the department's Information Access & Privacy unit at privacy@dpie.nsw.gov.au.

Formal complaint – privacy internal review

Informal complaints may be referred for a review to be carried out under section 53 of the PPIP Act, if it is considered that a serious breach of privacy has occurred, or that it is more appropriate to deal with your complaint on a formal basis. This is known as a privacy internal review.

Under the HRIP Act and PPIP Act, complaints or applications for internal review to us must:

- be lodged within six months of becoming aware of the alleged conduct
- be in writing
- have a return address in Australia.

Under the formal process you can have the decision reviewed by the Administrative and Equal Opportunity Division of the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal. By contrast, informal complaints are dealt with by our officers and there are no formal review rights.

An internal review is conducted by a senior officer who was not substantially involved in the matter being complained about. This officer is responsible for reviewing the action or decision that led to the potential privacy breach, and deciding if there has been a breach of privacy. There is no cost to lodge a complaint or request an internal review. Reviews should be completed within 60 days. The NSW Privacy Commissioner must be advised by the department of receipt of a privacy internal review request and be provided with the reviewing officer's final report.

The report should:

- detail the review findings about the facts of the matter, the law and the reviewer's interpretation of the law
- set out a determination as to whether a breach has occurred, with one of the following findings:
  - insufficient evidence to suggest alleged conduct occurred
  - alleged conduct occurred but complied with the privacy/health privacy principles and/or public register provisions
  - alleged conduct occurred, but the non-compliance was authorised by an exemption, Code or Direction (s.41 of PPIP Act / s.62 of HRIP Act)

- alleged conducted occurred: conduct did not comply with principles or public register provisions and was not authorised, so constitutes a “breach” of the legislation
- making recommendations on appropriate action by way of response or remedy (this may include an apology, changing agency processes, providing training to relevant staff, etc.).

A complaint can also be lodged with the Information and Privacy Commission. (<https://www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/>)

Detailed internal procedures for handling a privacy internal review are at Appendix 2.

6.2. Breach of privacy/data breach

We might become aware of a breach of privacy either because you make a complaint about your privacy being breached, or a departmental employee identifies that something has happened that may have exposed a person’s privacy. In either circumstance, the matter will be forwarded to our Information Access & Privacy unit. The business area responsible for the conduct that led to the breach will do their best to contain the breach and minimise any damage to you or others affected.

The Information Access & Privacy unit will assist the business area responsible, assess the seriousness of the breach, and make any recommendations such as:

- notification to any affected individuals
- notification to the NSW Privacy Commissioner
- changes to processes or procedures that would minimise the risk of a future breach.

If a serious data breach is identified, you will be notified in accordance with the mandatory data breach notification scheme. The department will also notify you if the breach is not serious, unless the breach is information that is not sensitive, poses little to no risk of harm to you, or if it is decided that notification is not required.

A serious data breach is defined as unauthorised access to, unauthorised disclosure of, or loss of, personal information held by us, and as a result, there is a real risk of serious harm to any of the individuals to whom the information relates.

Notifying individuals can assist in mitigating any damage for those people and reflects positively on our organisation. If the data breach creates a real risk of serious harm to the individual, they must be notified immediately, or as soon as possible. The NSW Privacy Commissioner must also be notified. The department might also notify the Privacy Commissioner if the risk is not serious, but we believe it is best to do so.

If a staff member believes that there has been a breach of privacy, serious or otherwise, they should contact the Information Access and Privacy Unit as soon as possible (Appendix 5).

Notifications for a privacy breach

Generally, it will be up to the business unit, in consultation with the Information Access and Privacy Unit as needed, to respond to the breach, taking any action to remedy the situation and notifying the affected individuals. A template for notifying any affected individuals is attached at Appendix 4.

If department staff receive a complaint alleging a privacy breach, or identify for themselves that a breach of privacy may have occurred, they should contact the Information Access and Privacy Unit as soon as possible. The Unit can guide the business area in handling the matter, such as suggesting remedies and assisting with notifications to affected individuals. The Unit will also help to assess whether the breach meets the threshold serious enough to require notification to the NSW Privacy Commissioner.

A copy of any notification to the affected individuals should be forwarded to the Information Access and Privacy Unit. If it has been decided that the Privacy Commissioner should also be advised, the Information Access and Privacy Unit will then notify the Privacy Commissioner, providing a copy of the department’s notification to the affected individuals. The Information Access and Privacy Unit will be the department's liaison with the Privacy Commissioner and assist the business area in assessing and responding to any recommendations of the Commissioner.

The Information Access and Privacy Unit maintains a register of all possible breaches, including complaints, whether or not the breach is upheld. The Unit takes the lead on reporting on breaches to the department's senior leadership team, as needed. The Unit is also responsible for providing the statistical information for the department's annual reporting requirements.

NSW Treasury

- Energy Corporation of NSW (EnergyCo NSW)
- Office of Energy & Climate Change

Appendix 2 – Privacy internal review procedures

Any privacy complaint or request for an internal review is to be forwarded to the Information Access and Privacy Unit (see page 4 for contact details).

A senior officer within the unit will be allocated as the reviewing officer and will carry out the following steps.

Step 1 Assess the application to confirm that:

- it has been lodged within 6 months of the individual becoming aware of the alleged conduct, and
- it is about either:
  - personal information and conduct that occurred after 1 July 2000, or
  - health information and conduct that occurred after 1 September 2004

If the above criteria are not met, the matter may be referred to relevant manager(s) for handling under other relevant complaint handling procedures instead.

If the criteria are met, the reviewing officer will proceed with the next steps.

Late applications

Applications may be accepted outside of the required 6-month period. The reviewing officer should consider the specific circumstances to the case and make a decision about whether there are sufficient grounds to accept a late application. The reviewing officer may need to engage with the relevant business area in making this decision.

1. If the late application is accepted, this will be communicated to the business area and the officer will proceed with the next steps.
2. If it is not accepted, the reasons for the decision must be communicated to the complainant. The complainant is to be advised of any next steps the department intends to take (if any), and their right to complain to the NSW Privacy Commissioner.

Step 2 Engage with the relevant business area of the department to advise:

- that the application has been received, and
- of the process, the next steps and what their requirements will be.

The reviewing officer will notify the business area of the matter (see the template at attachment 3). Attach the “Roles and responsibilities – privacy internal reviews” fact sheet to the notification.

The business area must nominate a person who is sufficiently senior to be able to approve any process changes, should the review make recommendations for it.

The business area must also ensure that someone who has sufficient subject matter expertise is available to respond promptly to queries from the reviewing officer.

Step 3 Write to the complainant within 5 days (see template at attachment 1) of receiving the application stating:

- the officer’s understanding of the conduct complained about
- the officer’s understanding of the relevant privacy principle(s) at issue
- that an internal review under the NSW Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 and/or the NSW Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002, as appropriate, is being conducted
- the reviewing officer’s name, title and contact details
- how, or just that, the reviewing officer is independent of the business area and was not substantially involved in any matter in connection with the conduct complained about

- a date 60 days from the day the application was received and a statement that if the review is not completed within the 60 days, the complainant can go to the Administrative and Equal Opportunity Division of the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) for an external review of the alleged conduct, and
- that a copy of the letter will be provided to the Privacy Commissioner who has an oversight role.

Attach the IPC's factsheet on IPPs or HPPs (as appropriate) and privacy complaints.

Step 4 Write to the Privacy Commissioner (see template at attachment 2) to advise of the privacy internal review request and provide a copy of your letter to the complainant (see Step 3).

Step 5 Gather information and review the evidence to determine whether the alleged conduct occurred, and if so, whether it constituted a breach of the relevant privacy legislation. The review should use any or all of the following methods:

- review any documentation, such as emails, involved in the alleged conduct
- review any procedures, policies or guidelines that guide the relevant business unit's processes, and what information is provided to members of the public whose personal information is collected
- speak to the officer(s) involved in the alleged conduct
- speak to the complainant to obtain further information and find out what it is they are seeking to manage their expectations about what we can and can't do
- confer with a director or manager of any relevant business area to determine if processes can be amended in order to mitigate future risk of a privacy breach (whether a breach has occurred or not).

Step 6 Send a progress report if the review is not finalised within four weeks of the issuing of the letters at steps 2 and 3 above to the complainant, with the Privacy Commissioner copied in, detailing:

- the progress to date, and where appropriate, the next steps
- any anticipated delays, and
- a reminder that if the review is not completed by the due date, the complainant can go to NCAT for an external review of the alleged conduct.

Step 7 Write a draft report after the review is completed:

- detailing the review findings, the relevant privacy law and how it applies to the facts of the matter
- for each information protection principle, setting out a determination as to whether a breach has occurred, with one of the following findings:
  - there is insufficient evidence to demonstrate the alleged conduct occurred
  - the alleged conduct occurred but it was in compliance with the relevant privacy/health privacy principles and/or public register provisions
  - the alleged conduct occurred, but non-compliance was allowed under a specified exemption, Code or Direction (s.41 of PPIP Act / s.62 of HRIP Act), or
  - the alleged conducted occurred and it did not comply with principles or public register provisions, so constitutes a 'breach', and
- where appropriate, making recommendations or remedy that may include a formal apology, a change to processes, providing training to staff, or monetary compensation to the complainant.

Note: even if a 'breach' has not occurred, processes can be changed or additional training provided if this would assist to mitigate risk of a future breach or the perception that a future breach is likely to occur.

Step 8 Liaise with the business area to provide a copy of the findings and recommendations. The business area should review the findings and advise the reviewing officer whether the recommendations are:

- agreed to, practical, and able to be implemented, or
- onerous or expensive, and not agreed to.

A sufficiently senior person within the business area should approve any recommended changes to processes or procedures and ensure they are implemented.

If the recommendations are impractical, unreasonably onerous, or expensive, the business area must work with the reviewing officer to find a course of action that will serve to mitigate future risks and comply with the department's obligations under the PPIP Act.

Note: if the reviewing officer finds that a breach of privacy has occurred, they may recommend that an apology be given to the affected individual(s). Any such apology should come from a senior person in the business area responsible for the conduct that led to the breach.

Note: even if recommendations are onerous or expensive, any decision about whether to accept the recommendations should have mind of the department's obligations under the PPIP Act and future liability if further breaches of privacy occur as a result of failing to take action.

Step 9 Provide a copy of the draft report to the Privacy Commissioner for comment, and check whether the Commissioner wishes to make any submissions.

Step 10 Finalise the report, taking into consideration any comments or recommendations provided by the Privacy Commissioner.

Step 11 Notify the business area, complainant and the Privacy Commissioner in writing and within 14 days (s.53(8) of the PPIP Act):

- that the review is finished
- of the review findings, including the reasons and legislative basis for the findings, and any action proposed to be taken, and
- of the complainant's right to apply within 28 days to the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) for a further review, and the details for the NCAT.

Explained for members of the public (IPC Fact sheet, August 2019)

The 12 Information Protection Principles (IPPs) are your key to the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (PPIP Act)

These are legal obligations which NSW public sector agencies, statutory bodies, universities and local councils must abide by when they collect, store, use or disclose personal information.

As exemptions may apply in some instances, it is therefore suggested you contact the Privacy Contact Officer at the agency or the Information and Privacy Commission NSW (IPC) for further advice.

Collection

An agency must only collect personal information for a lawful purpose. It must be directly related to the agency's function or activities and necessary for that purpose.

2. Direct

An agency must only collect personal information directly from you, unless you have authorised collection from someone else, or if you are under the age of 16 and the information has been provided by a parent or guardian.

3. Open

An agency must inform you that the information is being collected, why it is being collected, and who will be storing and using it. You must also be told how you can access and correct your personal information, if the information is required by law or is voluntary, and any consequences that may apply if you decide not to provide it.

4. Relevant

An agency must ensure that your personal information is relevant, accurate, complete, up-to-date and not excessive. The collection should not unreasonably intrude into your personal affairs.

Storage

5. Secure

An agency must store personal information securely, keep it no longer than necessary and dispose of it appropriately. It should also be protected from unauthorised access, use, modification or disclosure.

Access and accuracy

6. Transparent

An agency must provide you with details regarding the personal information they are storing, why they are storing it and what rights you have to access it.

7. Accessible

An agency must allow you to access your personal information without excessive delay or expense.

8. Correct

An agency must allow you to update, correct or amend your personal information where necessary.

Use

9. Accurate

An agency must ensure that your personal information is relevant, accurate, up to date and complete before using it.

10. Limited

An agency can only use your personal information for the purpose for which it was collected unless you have given consent, or the use is directly related to a purpose that you would expect, or to prevent or lessen a serious or imminent threat to any person's health or safety.

Disclosure

11. Restricted

An agency can only disclose your information in limited circumstances if you have consented or if you were told at the time they collected it that they would do so. An agency can also disclose your information if it is for a directly related purpose and it can be reasonably assumed that you would not object, if you have been made aware that information of that kind is usually disclosed, or if disclosure is necessary to prevent a serious and imminent threat to any person's health or safety.

12. Safeguarded

An agency cannot disclose your sensitive personal information without your consent, for example, information about ethnic or racial origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, sexual activities or trade union membership. It can only disclose sensitive information without consent in order to deal with a serious and imminent threat to any person's health or safety.

The Health Privacy Principles (HPPs)

Explained for members of the public (IPC Fact Sheet, August 2019)

The 15 Health Privacy Principles (HPPs) are the key to the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (HRIP Act).

These are legal obligations which NSW public sector agencies and private sector organisations must abide by when they collect, hold, use and disclose a person's health information. Exemptions may apply, therefore it is suggested you contact the Privacy Contact Officer or the Health Information Manager in the organisation or agency in the first instance. Or contact the Information and Privacy Commission NSW (IPC) for further advice.
